

We Will Continue

Smalltown Poets

We will continue when it ends
We won't wait for the music to begin
To lift our spirits with rhythm and chords
Let each breath here return to the lord

We will continue to sing
Before and after the last notes ring
With a feel for the times beating out
In the key of what life is about

All day long we listen
You take the melody
All day long you let
Us have the harmony
This is worship
With every breath we sing

For every passion and mood
Our harmony bends to your tune
Be it languishing tender or sad
Be it happy glorious or glad

With those who sang here before
Let their memory open the door
And the new ones can shout if they will
With the old ones echoing still

All day long we listen
You take the melody
All day long you let
Us have the harmony
This is worship
With every breath we sing
(Of your mercy, of your glory, of redemption, and the gospel story)

Our whole lives are a song
Let our voices carry back
To where they belong
And when the life that we know has been sung
All of heaven will sing as with one tongue

All day long we listen
You take the melody
All day long you let
Us have the harmony
This is worship
With every breath we sing
(Of your mercy, of your glory, of redemption, and the gospel story)
