Because You Are

The Smashing Pumpkins

Because you are because you are because you are because you are

i've got the tremor to stay because you are i scar the stranger, betrayed all of my senses ashamed i will deny all that i am afraid lies will disguise rules of time and endgames

i chew the rust off my face because you are i wipe the stain off my haze because you are i am released, born of age because you are i stare inside empty faith

i will deny all that i am afraid lies will disguise rules of time and endgames because you are

because you are
rinse the scars off my skin
because you are
i touch the scars of your skin
because you are
i let the travel begin
i let the travel begin
