

Summer

The Smashing Pumpkins

In the summer I can breathe
I don't need a single thing
And all the love you give
Is so sweet
In the winter I can read
All those books you gave to me
And all the words of faith
Are bound to waste
Worn and torn from the outside
A love that's strong every time
Still you vanish in the night
Hey love
Hey love
Hey love
Jack and rosemary
Said love will calm their hearts
Never any moment
Still devout
A child that can change
I blessed on the stage
I lost the changes
We give each day
Worn and torn from the outside
A child gets born it's divine
A love that's strong every time
Do you feel anything
Can you explain
If I change
Oooh oooh
Worn and torn from the outside
A love that's strong as the tides
And still you vanish in the night
Hey love
Hey love (well come on darling)
Hey love (well come on feel)
