

All She Ever Really Wanted

Smokie

I'd have given her the mountains,
every star up in the sky,
any little thing she wanted I would do.
But the sad and lonely truth is that I never stood a chance,
'cause all she ever wanted was you.
You don't listen to her problems,
you just think about yourself,
heaven knows you've made her cry a time or two.
I would gladly dry those teardrops,
make her smile forever more,
all she ever wanted was you.
Ain't love a funny thing, never know what'll make a heart
sing.
Nothin I could say, nothin I could do,
all she ever really wanted was you,
all she ever really wanted was you.
Well, I know I ought to give up,
fall in love with someone else,
'stead I hold on to this dream that won't come true.
And I'm always gonna wonder, till the very day I die,
why all she ever wanted was you.
