

Looking For The Answers

So They Say

Losing track of time
'Cause you want the world empty inside
You know I wish you well
Someday I hope I can stop this girl from falling faster into me mories fading out

When your lungs get tired
Every second counts
If you're looking for the answers
You're asking the wrong questions

When you finally figure it out
I'll be waiting on your doorstep
Will you be inspired to stay put
While I set this dream of love on fire?

Do you feel as if it's good for you
To sit at home and let hate consume you
Because you'll wish you never showed me
How nothing really matters

When's the last time
You remember asking to hold me like I'm the only thing that matters?
But it ends tonight
No one's waiting up for you turn out the lights
And cry yourself to sleep

Can you feel it when the lights turn low?
Can you feel it when your heartbeat slows?
And you're falling down again