

This Momentary Bliss

Soilwork

My eyes are bleeding
They search for someone else
And end up somewhere else
Where the expendable souls go
They must be watching this
We're running out
Stare through a glass wall
Until you
We must be bigger
The momentary bliss

Don't let the light
You see restrain you
Don't put your trust
In the dark outside
There will be more than
You ever could die for
This momentary bliss
Is a lie

Unlock the treasure
Of brand new emotion
I drink it up
Like a demon of faith
I reckon someone
Will see my devotion
For I will be the
One to get closer
Closer to a life
I chase it right into
A well of redemption
Well of redemption

Don't let the light
You see restrain you
Don't put your trust
In the dark outside
There will be more than
You ever could die for
This momentary bliss
Is a lie

Don't let the light
You see restrain you
Don't put your trust
In the dark outside
There will be more than
You ever could die for
This momentary bliss
Is a lie

The enemy is what you feel
Believe my words
The enemy is what you feel
He is real
The enemy is what you feel
Believe my words

The enemy is what you feel
He is real
The enemy is what you feel
Believe my words
The enemy is what you feel
He is real
The enemy is what you feel
Believe my words
The enemy is what you feel
He is real

Don't let the light
You see restrain you
Don't put your trust
In the dark outside
There will be more than
You ever could die for
This momentary bliss
Is a lie