

I'd rather break

Solar Fake

The world has changed today
A silence took the light away from me
And I have seen the truth about the hell you came from
There are far too many reasons to kill

I'm waiting for the day to come
I've won the battle on my own
I was torn, but now I'm running out of doubts

I soar up to the sky
'Cause I could not comply
With rules I must deny
Now all the barricades are gone
And I can write a different ending
And I will never bend
For things I can't believe in
I'd rather break in two

All words are said today
My questions safely cast away
But I never tried to find the answers inside me
And through all the years my pure objections were overruled