I hate you more than my life

Solar Fake

I hate you more than my life

Another storm begins to gather, taking my unheard screams away I am wasting so much time now, playing along with the scenes

I cannot cling to lost ambitions, I don't need your effort now Cause I'm no longer part of this game
No trace of me remains

For the darkening of my eyes For a covering of my skies For revealing my disguise I hate you more than my life

For the words I never heard For the things I'd have preferred For my focus going blurred I hate you more than my life

No correction of wrong directions would lead to the perfect pat ${\bf h}$

I have been the false reflection of the image behind the door

I was permanently drifting into the great white void Just before I go insane
No trace of me remains