

As You Sleep

Something Corporate

Close your eyes, and I will be swimming lullaby's fill your room, and I will be singing singing to only you don't forget I'll hold your head watch the night sky fading red

But as you sleep, and no-one is listening
I will lift you off your feet, I'll keep you from sinking don't you wake up yet, cause soon I'll be leaving you soon I'll be leaving you, but you won't be leaving me

In the car, the radio leaves me searching for your star a constellation of frustration driving home singing my thoughts back to me, and watching heartache on TV

But as you sleep, and no-one is listening
I will lift you off your feet, I'll keep you from sinking don't you wake up yet, cause soon I'll be leaving you, soon I'll be leaving you but you won't be leaving me

Don't forget I'll hold your head, watch the night sky fading red

But as you sleep, and no-one is listening
I will lift you off your feet, I'll keep you from sinking
don't you wake up yet, cause soon I'll be leaving you soon I'll be leaving you, but you won't be leaving me.
