

Forget December

Something Corporate

On Christmas morning, outside was pouring
All was hopeless in this home And no one's speaking, no one creeping to see if she was on the phone And you were quiet, this routine riot was all but practical to me and if we see it, why can't we beat it can we let each other be?

Forget December, it won't be better Than I remember it before and this month only, will be so lonely and not so homey anymore

New Years Eve came, but nothing had changed all the problems just got worse we sat in silence no routine science could heal the sickness we rehearse and if I'm talking, my words are mocking the deaf ears they have fallen on These words are tainted with years of jaded Innocence that's all but gone

Forget December, it won't be better than I remember it before
and not so homey anymore, anymore, anymore, anymore Forget December, it won't be better than I remember it before this month only will be so lonely
and not so homey anymore
Forget December it won't be better
a silent night won't feel quite right It's not so silent anymore, anymore, anymore, anymore

On Christmas morning, outside was pouring
