Something for Kate

So you dance and you shuffle into the eye of the storm Your eyes all on fire as if you've been here before And you say it's all nothing, but tell yourself quiety But I hear you for miles breathing differently And when it all falls down

You won't just stand there looking at the ground And holding your breath, holding out

So you drive 'till the water changes from blue to green And you wait there until the wind knocks you out of your body You can stay there forever counting the stars Trying to separate yourself from how things are But you know you won't get very far until it all falls down

So don't just stand there looking at the ground And holding your breath, holding out
