This Generation

Sonicflood

This generation worships You This generation seeks Your face This generation kneels before You This generation adores You

This is a call to worship This is a call to sing This is a call to fall down on our knees Before the risen King

This is a call to shout out This is a call to praise This is a call to lift our hearts And hands and voices

Lift, our songs of praise In every town, in every nation The kingdom comes this generation

Praise, our songs of suffering Make every heart a new creation Come into this generation

This generation worships You This generation seeks Your face This generation kneels before You This generation adores You

This is a call to worship This is a call to sing This is a call to fall down on our knees Before the risen King

This is a call to shout out This is a call to praise This is a call to lift our hearts And hands and voices

Lift, our songs of praise In every town, in every nation The kingdom comes this generation

Praise, our songs of suffering Make every heart a new creation Come into this generation

This generation worships You This generation seeks Your face This generation worships You This generation seeks Your face

This generation worships You This generation seeks Your face This generation worships You This generation adores You