

A Thousand Times

Sophie Zelmani

I woke up so sad one morning
And there were reasons for that bad morning
Something told me
You're not ready for this change
I got up and stepped into the shower,
and I thought,
It will be gone, about an hour or so
But something told me, this feeling comes from deep inside
And suddenly ran teardrops
Just like the water
And I lost, I lost the fight
And it felt like someone, had died away from me
And myself died a thousand times
Have I lost my sense and strength
Are my eyes just full of you
Why come the pictures, reminding me of love
And suddenly ran teardrops
Just like the water
And I lost, I lost the fight
And it felt like someone, had died away from me
And myself died a thousand times