Sophie Zelmani

I woke up so sad one morning And there were reasons for that bad morning Something told me You're not ready for this change I got up and stepped into the shower, and I thought, It will be gone, about an hour or so But something told me, this feeling comes from deep inside And suddenly ran teardrops Just like the water And I lost, I lost the fitght And it felt like someone, had died away from me And myself died a thousand times Have I lost my sense and strength Are my eyes just full of you Why come the pictures, reminding me of love And suddenly ran teardrops Just like the water And I lost, I lost the fitght And it felt like someone, had died away from me And myself died a thousand times