

My Soul Remembers

Sophie Zelmani

I would recognize you I would feel you here If your soul remembers I'm still here

I would walk towards you with the wrinkles around my eyes My soul remembers And I apologize

For all that has fallen, out of time I know I've fallen

I would show you my day and all this home has made so dear My soul remembers while I needed to be someone to someone near

If your soul remembers, would you give your mind a way to touch
If there's a touch for every feeling those years have stolen enough

I know I've fallen, out of time I know I've fallen

I would recognize you though the clouds you're behind My soul remembers see, it's still chasing the sun