

The Ocean And Me

Sophie Zelmani

It's the ocean and me We're the ones to be I always fall asleep Beside the sea

And we've got a certain way How it wakes me every day I never know though With what kind of wave

And you know about oceans How brutally it can rush Drown you, or calmly caress you With a gentle touch

Sometimes I bring my boat And I believe it'll let me float It's just that I'm so often Returning soaked

The ocean has you Has the waves of you And I have never felt a sea So blue
