

Paris, Cali, Milan

Soraya

Hitched a ride last night driving fast never felt so right I held my hand up high and grabbed a handful of my life

There's a feeling of an urgent kind that makes me run when I'm walking that line I lose myself in the warmth it gives me

I lose myself in it's jaded bliss I dream, I grieve, I make believe I fly away yet I'll fight to stay

Once again, I face a change that moves my world into unknown space

This place I call home is an ever changing array of stones

Paris, Cali, Milan
are my faithful lovers
I fall in their arms

There's a feeling of an urgent kind
that makes me run when I'm walking
that line I lose myself in the warmth it gives me
I lose myself in it's jaded bliss I dream,
I grieve, I make believe
I fly away yet I'll fight to stay

Once again, I face a change
that moves my world into unknown space

Unto wisdom and unto glory unto failure and unto fame I'll throw myself and I won't look back I'll crave them all with no sense of shame

There's a feeling of an urgent kind
that makes me run when I'm walking
that line I lose myself in the warmth it gives me
I lose myself in it's jaded bliss I dream,
I grieve, I make believe
I fly away yet I'll fight to stay

Once again, I face a change
that moves my world into unknown space