

Wall Of Smiles

Soraya

You ask me how I am Im very well, thank you. Gotta go, we'll talk another time Then I walk away before I know Im running home where I can be alone I embrace familiar stop and take the day off and throw it on the pile

So familiar then I crumble behind my wall of smiles...

I smell it on my skin holding fast to me its only fear I know it very well my four walls have eyes through which I can see where I could go if I didn't know

I embrace familiar harbouring no anger Im just trying to reconcile

So familiar then I crumble behind my wall of smiles...

So familiar then I crumble behind my wall of smiles...