

Keep a watch out behind you from that which can blind you
And die like a dream in a jar
Forewarned if hindsight is all that makes you right
You're running away but you won't get very far

No, it's not my intention to harbor pretensions
So I told you I hadn't a clue
Took fate by a neck and you'll never look back
You've forgotten more than I ever knew

R: Everything's turning but mostly just turning out wrong
What's lost is what's burning, the fire made the day seem so long
And it's Gullible's Travels and nothing unravels this way
Just another lost journey where everything's turning away

See the crowds friendly roar from the cutting room floor
Played it at night in his dreams
Woke up, was cold and his manager had sold him
It's louder than love but don't think they know what it means

R: Nobody's talking and who tells you when to go home
Yes I wore out my welcome, it's better than being alone
And it's Gullible's Travels and nothing unravels this way
Just another lost journey where everything's turning away

Shot in the dark, landing short of the mark
Can't hold a candle to you
Flame's burning brightly and shines in so lightly
By the light of the day it'll all seem so untrue

R: Everything's turning but mostly just turning out wrong
What's lost is what's burning, the fire made the day seem so long
And it's Gullible's Travels and nothing unravels this way
Just another lost journey where everything's turning away
