

Where Frozen Dreams Lie

Soulfallen

What ferocity lied in the act that devoured my life
For I was only a man alone with a dream

What malevolence was seen in the forces set at strife Into nothingness I was cast or so it seemed (and came to be...)

Scarred I am by wounds that will never bleed me to death...

Aeons have passed since the day that poisoned my soul with dismay for me the world did still and for life I lost my will Cast to trail where frozen dreams lie...

Incessantly they beset me
The memories,
only strengthened through the ravages of time

Scarred I am by wounds that will never lead me to death...

Aeons have passed since the day
The dark remains the same For nothing can ever cease this broken soul's unease

Yearning, Redemption, yet nothing I ever received Burning, Within me,
the thought of being confined, eternally!

One thing I have learned from this life forlorn
Do not ever dream for dreams are stillborn...