

The Best Is Yet to Come

SR-71

You see yourself being so small
Running into every brick wall
It's not as far as you can go
The road is twisting turning
A life is living learning
There's so much more for you to know

R: If you could lock the past away
Step back through the doorway
This ride has just begun
If I could change your point of view
Is there someday I can show you
The best is yet to come

Not every problem can be Solved so easily
Not every answer is the one
Above the flood of emotion
It's all about forward motion
Define your place in the sun

R:

Try to hide
It's all inside
You can find a place where the pain and guilt can fall away

If you're spitting truth
Bulletproof
Crashing through the walls that separate me and you

Now you'll find with everything you lose
Your path clears with everything you choose

If you could lock the past away
Step back through the doorway
This ride has just begun
Change your point of view
Is there someday I can show you
The best is yet to come

R:

Is there someday I can show you
The best is yet to come