

The Passenger

Stars

7:49

Night train right on time Climb the steel stairs Absinthe brandy wine spirits moving in the steam Compartment forest green the rattle of the rails you fall into a dream high clouds in the sky Moon goes racing by another sleepless night so you speed into daylight

[chorus:]

Here comes another strange town Here comes another breakdown
And you can run forever They'll catch you now or never

In the tainted car and then later in the bar you see yourself reflected I wonder who you are The passengers asleep dream of secrets that they keep in the cabin next to you A woman starts to weep

The things you knew all fall away
The things you had all disappear
As if you were never here

[chorus]

And when you arrive You're not sure if you're alive all the passengers are gone Everybody except one station quiet, station still nothing moves, nothing will put your hand up to your face There are things you can't replace

[chorus x2]
