Reflections

Steppenwolf

I awoke on the morning after While the sun was rising through her hair Then my world, it was filled with golden laughter When my heart told me that some love still lives there