

Sleepers

Steve Hackett

Breathing in and out with tide
Leaving the mantra of a world outside
Faces bathed by moonbeams
All the sleepers send you their dreams

Rising from a wave of helping hands
A woman holds a statue till he becomes a man
Captured in her eyes he's finally complete
All the sleepers send you their dreams

Night terrors make you scream
Dogs turned reptiles halloween
Lizards and birds, claws in your feet
Can't shake off all the demons you meet

Surveillance camera in the sky
Big big brother telling you why
Too many saviours on my cross
Might as well worship the Wizards of Oz

Turning your dream around
Take the reins again
Running through the flames
Sun shininh out of the rain

Taking a leap of faith
Jumping into space
Find as unknown place
The moon's other face

All the sleepers send you their dreams
All the sleepers send you their dreams
