Against The Wall

Steve Perry

All of my life I've waited For someone like you And darling, forever someday That could be true But who would believe me

From the middle of my hear From the middle of my lonely Something's tearing you and me apart

Here I am (And here I am) Against the wall once again (And here I am)

Believe I want you, I'd like to More than I show But I belong to somebody else, baby, please Walk out that door, yeah, oh Before it's too late, listen

In the middle of your touch In the middle where your heat starts rising Oh, girl, I want you so bad

Here I am (And here I am) Against the wall again (And here I am) Against the wall, once again (And here I am) Yeah, against the wall again
