Only One and Only You

Steven Curtis Chapman

I caught you looking in the window at your reflection and

I could see you were unimpressed

I watch you whither like a willow at what you think are imperfections

When you compare you to all the rest

And I wish I could find a way to make you see you the way I do So I wrote this song for you

You're better than a Beethoven symphony
And Mona Lisa wishes she could be a masterpiece like you
More than any Michelangelo
When I look at you I know
There's no other masterpiece like you
You are the only one and only you

There is music in your laughter the world has never heard befor e

You came and brought a melody
The way you say it the way you see it

When you're sad and glad and so much more

All these gifts only you can bring

Still I know that right now everything that you feel says it's just not true $% \left(1\right) =\left(1\right) +\left(1\right$

So I'll keep reminding you that

You're better than a Beethoven symphony And Mona Lisa wishes she could be a masterpiece like you More than any Michelangelo

When I look at you I know there's no other masterpiece like you You are the only one and only you

Wonderfully, carefully woven together by God's own hand And you're better than a Beethoven symphony And Mona Lisa wishes she could be a masterpiece like you More than any Michelangelo When I look at you I know there's no other masterpiece like you You are the only one and only you You are the only one and only you
