

You Know Better

Steven Curtis Chapman

I saw you staring out your window
Watchin' the people passin' by Taking some notes on what you saw out there
So you would know how hard you need to try

I heard you asking lots of questions
How in comparison you stand?
Please let me warn you to be very careful
God wants our best and not our better than

But you know better, better than that
You know better than, better than that
You should know better, truth is the only measure
You know better, better than that

Now just in case I've got you thinkin'
And if you're feeling like I do
Maybe it's time we open up the Holy Bible
And see exactly what He's called us to

He said the least would be the greatest
The greatest is the one who serves
We must be living by a different standard
A life that isn't graded on a curve

But you know better, better than that
You know better than, better than that
You should know better, truth is the only measure
You know better, better than that

You know better, better than that
You know better than, better than that
You should know better, truth is the only measure
You know better, better than that

You know better, better than that
You know better than, better than, better than that
You should know better, truth is the only measure
You know better, better, better than that

You should know better, truth is the only measure
You know better, better than that

You know better than that
You know better
You know better, better than that
You know better
You know better
Darkle

You know better
You know better, better than
You know better
