The 78

Steven Wilson

Discarded love today The North will soon become I lost too much today So myth will now become

I threw my life away And for what? I blew my chances, too I see the bitter truth I give up

Relinquish all connection And being yourself for once Distrusting insurrection So thank yourself for once

I threw my life away And for what? I blew my chances, too I see the bitter truth I give up I give up

What seems so real today Soon will make me come The thing you always craved Surely I've become

I threw my life away And for what? I blew my chances, too I see the bitter truth I give up I give up

I threw my life away And for what? I blew my chances, too I see the bitter truth I give up I give up