

Fallen Down

Stick Figure

things, things don't ever seem the same some people know it all, no they are not going to change
we lose the opportunity, its followed by the shame caught in a situation when i can not complain about you this time around we got all figured out let this space surround and free our minds of our doubt he return to the home, but this time he find out been gone for so long, this town moved on without its not for the money and its not for the fame the only possibility for the man to regain his love got lost in this sea of pain he try to break free but that feeling remains rise to day everything will be alright bow down to the earth and look up at the sky put your hands together and ask the man why he said let me tell you, ive got news for you.

everyone around me is fallen down everyone around, dont fool around everyone around me's fallen down we dream of what we want and push the rest far away but this time we come around try to break it down Its been awhile, but the mind has a certain way of saying there is a dark and a light, they have a different set of ways

but every single season brings a new sunshine lets us make today, it is the day we realize upon the path of life, theres are so many roads i'll see you upon corner, its life I suppose

everyone around me's fallen down
everyone around, dont fool around
everyone around me's fallen down help me get my feet up off the ground help me get my mind in tune with the sound everyone around me's fallen down

this love, this love will never seem the same some people know it all, no they are not going to change
we lose the opportunity, its followed by the shame
caught in a situation when i can not complain about you
this time around we got all figured out
let this space surround and free our minds of our doubt
he return to the home, but this time he find out
been gone for so long, this town moved on without
its not for the money and its not for the fame the only possibility (way) to for the man to regain his love got lost in this sea of pain
he try to break free but that feeling remains
rise to day everything will be alright
bow down to the earth and look up at the sky

put your hands together and ask the man why
he said let me tell you, ive got news for you.