Sick And Tired

Stiltskin

I used to think it would never end Eternally, forever and a day, infinite always Nothing could be better than a life alone with you

The funny thing is a piece of me The skeptic who Is waiting for the day to prove me wrong-again YouDre wrong again Should have known better than to leave myself open

The fool is a victim Sitting in the corner of a room somewhere with pictures in pieces Scattered all around

The conversation is about life How so many things come and go with no rhyme or reason Seems the best ones, come to those who wait

IDm sick and tired of waiting Wasting so much time when you donDt want me to hold on ItDs messing up my mind IDm not expired or broken ThereDs still so much inside And yes I listened, you told me Every word a lie

I really hope that it works out I wouldn□t wish any harm to find you Everything is destiny Whether I like it or not -- I don□t I□ll find faith in my own way Part of me will always wonder what you□re thinking Who you dream of Want and are in need of IDm sick and tired of waiting...

Sick and tired ItDs all excuses Every word you tell me Seems to disappear without trace IDm alive donDt you see Every word is nothing but a lie to me I know it so well

I don t think that you could ever leave me I know you re rightfully the one for me Dcause everything is destiny! The ride is fast but I hold tight I raise my dukes and prepare for a new fight Not what is right but what is wrong I feel the winds of the storm but I carry on While you re torn, IDm born You think in lies this Is no fun But look inside and you Il see there a new sun!

 $I\square m$ sick and tired of waiting Waiting Wasting so much time when you don $\Box t$ want me to hold on

What is right for what is wrong ItDs messing up my mind ItDs Messing up my mind IDm not expired or broken While youDre torn, IDm born ThereDs still so much inside And yes I listened, listening, you told me Every word a lie
