

Love Is Life

Strata

I've got enough wood and nails here I've collected through the years to build a few sturdy walls to keep us safe from all my fears.
My insecurities are promises I was born to keep;
you know I live just to die for my beliefs.
Well, I believe in myself and I believe in you,
if it's the last thing we both do, let's take a good, deep breath - remember this...

Love is life, this love is my life... and in you I have all I need...

I think we could stretch this out forever,
like a blanket in the sand and we could learn a couple dances, we'll do them hand in hand until we end and even after -
'cause death can't tear apart these two hearts sewn together, meant to be this from the start.

In sickness and health and all that we've been through,
if it's the last thing we both do, let's take a good, deep breath - remember this...

Love is life. This love is my life... Love is a long way to fall...

Love is life. This love is my life
