

Night Falls (The Weight Of It)

Strata

The room fills up with water and the roar of the crowd died down,
they didn't hold their breath,
they just waited to drown.
Now I'm just the ghost in the corner
that nobody knows.
I'm just the chill in the air that comes
and cuts you to the bone.
I've never seen it shine so bright here before.
I stumble blind into the light of it all.
The walls of this city are all cold metal and stone,
but we're nothing permanent we're just soft skin and bones.
I'm just the pins and needles attacking your toes.
I'm just a message you saved in your phone a long, long time ago where I'm singing how I've never seen it shine so bright before.
I stumbled blind into the light, the light of it all.
You've never seen it shine, so hard before-
You'd crumble underneath the weight, the weight of it all.
I'm always with you.
I never left you alone.
