I am on the brink of losing everything Hanging on the edge of every word she says And you were never there You were never there

She stabs deep into me

Am I too blind to see what this has done to me?

She stabs deep into me

Am I too numb to feel this anymore?

You were the one who could save me
You were the one who abandoned me
I am patiently waiting here to see
Which of us survives when all of this collides with reality

She stabs deep into me

Am I too blind to see what this has done to me?

She stabs deep into me

Am I too numb to feel this anymore?

You were never there You were never there You were never there You were never

She stabs deep into me

Am I too blind to see what this has done to me?

She stabs deep into me

Am I too numb to feel this anymore?

You were never there You were never there You were never there You were never there
