

I'm standing outside
In darkness my breath is steaming
The sky's open wide
I hear the silence screaming

Deep in the dark somewhere in space
Spinning around leaving no trace

Nothing escapes and the boundary's been breached
All matter and shape
Destination's reached

A star dies, collapsing in its core
End of the journey
It won't be seen anymore

I can see the point of no return
And then the light is slowly turning to red
Light years away, there is no concern
A force of gravity, event horizon lies ahead