

Eulogy

Strawberry Alarm Clock

I was too young to know different
When I first fell in love with you
And though you were in love with him
I felt that you loved me too

I used all of my little tricks
To make sure that you noticed me
I was sure that I had you fooled
Yet you saw through my strategy

As the days wandered into years
Seems you still loved the both of us
But our silence, my jealous heart
Loved you too much to make a fuss

Then the day came when he was gone
And your tears nearly broke my heart
I realized that since I was born
You two never have been apart

Now again you have turned to him
Made a lie of the marriage oath
For in death you are hand in hand
Mom and dad how I miss you both
