

Your Day Will Come

Streetlight Manifesto

A young lady leaves her mother
With no one to love her
To protect her from the world

And I have seen the monsters
That will haunt her
That will tear her all apart

And at her gravestone we will remember
Just where we were when you knew she would go
And I still remember that day that we left her
That's when she said that she knows how it goes

And we sang:
"Your day will come
Your day will come
Your day will come"

And no matter what they say
It won't matter if you pray or if you sin
'Cause in the end it's all the same

Your day will come
Your day will come
Your day will come
And no matter they say
It won't matter if you pray or if you sin
'Cause in the end it's all the same

A young man becomes a soldier
He's isn't much older than a boy and that's a shame
They will lead him into battle
Hand him medals when he comes home rearranged

And I could say so
Of a man with a halo
He will obey; he will fall into place
Remembered by ribbons but never forgiven
He'll shoulder the bulk of the blame
What a shame
And we'll sing

If I only had a dollar
For every horror that befalls my fellow man
I'd never work another hour
But I'd grow sour from the guilt and bitterness
The luck of the draw will determine the fall and Everyone else will relax and move on
But what will you do when they come looking for you friend?
I hope that you're brave and you're strong
Through it all

Your day will come!
Your day will come!
Your day will come!
And no matter what they say
It won't matter if you pray or if you sin

'Cause in the end
It's all the same
