

Postcards From Home

Strike Anywhere

If you could see in the dark hallways old lights flicker stobelight shows of gurneys silver and rust refrigeration stalled when the fuse box blew the medicine needed to save you holding tight to a weapon
in the place of a toy or your mother's hand white diamonds red earth i t's slavery understand home now is the place between right and this the blast still sings t he bullets blaze
the target missed atrocitly calmly
in your narcotic bliss this last harvest of our innocence

white diamonds red earth is slavery understand postcards from post colonies, post kingdoms

progress twisted from sea to sea

progress twisted for you and me

the light will follow you you can't walk away
because you're so conditioned (like me)
you can't walk away
this land will follow you
you can't walk away
'cause this is home
