

Something Else In Mind

Stroke 9

Come on, yeah
Well i waited for the sun to come up
Along with everything that i had thought of
Would it come to mind again, and again
Would i be something in the something out there
Be there in the end

Well, it was very upsetting to me
My dilemma was only mine
Then you tore my soul in two just with a single blow
And i'm just sitting around trying to figure out
Which way to come, which way to go

But she had something else in mind for me
Yeah, she had something else in mind
Something else in mind

Then i felt around for whatever i could
Just to get away from it all like i should
And then i heard a little something in the wind that told me
To stop thinking about where it's coming from
But just be happy that it's blowin'

It was very enticing to me
'cause my decision was only mine
Then you tore my soul in two just with a single blow
And i'm just sitting around trying to figure out
Which way to come, which way to go

Then i waited for the sun to go down
But in my heart i want it to stick around
I've been sitting here for hours, you say i'm wasting time
But i just can't recall my body feeling so much like it's mine

It was very exciting to me
'cause I knew that it was my time
Then you chopped my heart in two with a single blow
And i'm just sittin' around trying to figure out
Which way to come, which way to go

But she had something else in mind for me
Yeah, she had something else in mind
Something else in mind