

Broken

Strung Out

the secret, kept safely hid in your mind betrays you, when you look into my eyes. broken are the bonds that used to bind you & i. broken like a promise bred from your world of lies. broken are the dreams, the ones you let slip away. trust me: two words i've heard once before. shelter your eyes from all that is real. broken and distorted, your reality within, your fucked up little world's a shame of need and denial. i can't stand by and let you lead me through this path it's broken. noises--the ones you hear in your mind. they lead you away from something that's real.