Disneyland

Strung Out

i want something more from this misery called life it's hard to keep my dreams alive there's all this pain and strife i dream of a place where all of us can hide a world where my answers can never be denied ??? i want to move to disney land and forget about this place what better way to get away from the fucked up human race i want to go to a world ??? no way to make believe ??? to disneyland and i never want to i never want to leave ???