

happiness finally comes to an end suspicion and convictions rule my mind waiting for assault or a threat of another kind run so far and i felt so much pain hoping for i tried to regain you always knew how to bring me to my knees like a bad, bad disease i tremble and shake from the memories of your lies the whole world falling i can see it in your eyes in your eyes so sorry it had to end this way maybe i'll see you again on another day you told me that you loved me and i could not respond i follow my mind to lead you away cause i fall and my heart lead me astray the time has come for me to say goodbye grow a little older and begin to die yesterdays a memory a memory of pain i must forget what you, you meant to me