

The Kids

Strung Out

Don't pack your bags don't bring your things just leave them all behind Don't you worry about a letter left for someone else to find No explanation needed to define what we have done We've mapped our course we've set our sights crossed hairs on everyone

Today it's you and me
and we're blowin up the world
We'll climb it's highest peak and watch it fall apart
We are the end result
we've forged our destiny
to rebuild it all again

Spray paint begins to dry the message soon becomes So obvious that this walking adolescent death trips tired of doin time They are the reversal they are silent they are one
They are everything you made them assassination of the young

Today it's you and me
They'll write about us all if they get out alive
We are the end result

You medicate into submission
A sleeping monster needs no attention
You bring me up to bring me down
You knew one day I'd come around This wasteland be our playground be our temple
be our salvation

We'll fill the seas with gasoline and shoot the sun right out the sky The spark of our imagination will keep all hope from running dry They'll write about us all
if anyone gets out alive to build it all again
