When Captain Jonas Psalter Sailed his ship to sea Anne Bonny kept him company

The skull and crossbones flew
Above the ocean blue
The captain's men where a pirate's crew

The ships they sought to take Were of the Spanish Main A gift from Ferdinand of Spain

And though you rob and kill to find your dream Your crimes are hardly what they seem

Tortuga held the treasure of a thousand kings So Jonas planned to steal everything

Two hundred men stood guard Around the fortune's nest But Psalter's steel slew all the rest

And when the smoke had cleared And bloody bodies lay Everyone could hear the minstrel play

Woo woo Jonas Psalter You've captured every prize There is to dream of in one life

And so we wonder why
We found you in your bed
With that bullet in your head