Deceit

Suffocation

For many years I put my trust in you Perceiving the vows I took that were true Only to learn all had been lost to you

To search for meanings not truly there Answers to questions only bring despair Distractions down the path of our lives

Unforgiving

Was there a point to nine years we had Selfish thoughts leave you undesireable Part of me was severed that very day

In the wake of confusion I search, looking For the answers to questions only reveal.