

Song of the Graves

SuidAkra

"Shades`ll grow stronger" a dark voice calls
out of the past

Minds too weak to with stand
to divide higher thoughts from barren lies

Here I stand on the plain while dark forces gather around me hear the lament of the corvine goddess a sullen croon of my destiny

The air resounds
a song of doom
all is lost
only cairns will last Oh they`ll remain
as a mute testimony
to the valor of men who proudly defied the will of fate led by a vision to a bitter end

Come on - you creatures of war and hate
leader of the weak
taste the steel of my blade Stouthearted I stand face to face with the darker side of mine well aware of my decline

So here the story ends with trembly letters
On this fateful script
the kings herald brought to me Misery is a child of bliss and so the circles close to finally vanish into a haze of mystery

All this I witnessed and even more
as time passed by I saw the sons of romolns fall the one god rise
and coldness survive
