

The Vertigo

Sunshine

you're disconnected
stuck on the second floor you started dealing with your misery just a face at the mirror
you're disconnected
and your bleeding scars
take you on the way

somewhere else
to another silent world
to freezing cold and empty right before somebody blows your mind

you're disconnected
you sit in silence and just dreaming about silence over the mountains you're scared to be alone
and your bleeding scars
take you on the way

somewhere else
to another silent world
to freezing cold and empty
right before somebody blows your mind

there is no time left the bright eyes
lost the color razors edge sliding in and your virgin skin is silver screen and your sticky bloody hands
take you on the way

somewhere else
to another silent world
to freezing cold and empty right before somebody blows your mind out!