

You (In Your Head)

Sunshine

You (in your head)
It's not right we cover our lies with silence
Start talking and make up your mind, open the door
Now you have no time, no room for all your obsessions
Backward voices telling you just let it go

Ghosts in your head whisper you'll never die
You see them in the dark and pray they disappear
One in your bed, one hiding in the box
Speechless in shadows, you wish to close your eyes

I got swallowed by this town, then turned and walked away
This girl is not the same, with the lips like a fairytale
Mellow time, cutting deep and down
Like a sharp knife, lost and found
Someone's innocent, blame jealousy
Welcome back to your life

You can't eat, can't sleep, your heart is bleeding
It's such a mess, but the angles will hold you tight
No one listens, but I hope, you will take in anyway
Another crash, another tie to hell

Snowflakes remind me that look in your eyes
Get out of here, life's fine but we are blind
Cinematic dreams—this changes everything
I tried my best to save the collapsing sky

I got swallowed by this town.....

Is this for real what we can get?
Is it still me who is making you sweat
Recall your dreams by holding your breath
They might be something you'll never get back

I got swallowed by this town.....

Is this for real what we can get?
Is it still me who is making you sweat
Recall your dreams by holding your breath
They might be something you'll never get back, never get back
