

I'm Not That Man Anymore

Survivor

Teardrops, falling from your eyes like raindrops
Pouring from the sky, remember
You used to have the love I needed
Back when we were young
Lovin' always came so easy
Heaven shared our love, magic
The first time that I held you
You fit like a glove
You'd soothe me, with a shrug of your heart you could move me
It always seemed my love would find you
When you needed a friend
I would be the man who would understand you

I'm not that man anymore
And I'm not gonna throw my heart away
No, that's not me anymore
Baby I've changed

One look is all it took to tell me your love was made of lies
Madness to think that I believed your reasons, your alibis
The day girl, when I turned to look the other way girl
I realized the game you were playin' was breakin' my heart
I could see it plainly, time has changed me

But I'm not that man anymore
And I'm not gonna throw my heart away
No, that's not me anymore
Baby I've changed
And I'm not gonna throw my heart away
No, that's not me anymore
Baby I've changed