

When

Susanne Sundfør

When can i see you again? i've been waiting out here for so long, and i don't seem to find a reason to keep building these castles out of snow they only melt away when spring is arriving and you won't be here waiting to drag me down into your pond you bury me slowly

take what you can give what you don't need still i'll let it be known in every parish you are loved