

The Divided Son

Suspyre

In the darkest hours coming ashore
Why do the winds battle with the storm?
Lay your head down low
Let the memories go
There's a stranger sleeping in your bed
If only you could put it to rest
Keep your words alive
Leave a subtle reply

Even though the skies return to blue
Nothing could ever keep me from you...

Someone's always climbing
Inside my frame of mind
You're the only answer
Holding the tie that binds

It's like swimming in a sea of black
And looking for the only way back
Listening for your voice
You would come through the noise
If tomorrow never comes again
We can bury ourselves deep within
And our minds are one
I'm the divided son

Someone's always climbing
Inside my frame of mind
You're the only answer
Holding the tie that binds

On the long trail of exceptions
You're the answers and the questions
And in this world revolving time
You're the one keeping me alive

Even though the skies return to blue
Nothing could ever keep me from you...

Someone's always climbing
Inside my frame of mind
You're the only answer
Holding the tie that binds